As they swam along, Sammy and Sally saw all sorts of interesting things. They saw a kelp forest, which is a forest of giant seaweed. They saw a coral reef, which is a home to many different kinds of fish and other animals. They even saw a group of dolphins playing in the waves.

Meeting New Friends

As they continued their journey, Sammy and Sally met a variety of marine animals. They met a sea turtle, a jellyfish, and a shark. They even met a friendly octopus who showed them the way to the salmon river.

Sammy and Sally were so excited to finally reach the salmon river. They saw hundreds of salmon swimming upstream to spawn. Sammy and Sally caught a few salmon for dinner and then they swam home, tired but happy.

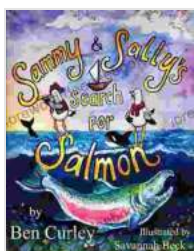

Learning About the Ecosystem

On their journey, Sammy and Sally learned a lot about the marine ecosystem. They learned about the different types of plants and animals that live in the ocean. They also learned about the importance of the salmon run to the entire ecosystem.

Sammy and Sally were so glad that they had gone on their search for salmon. They had learned a lot about the ocean and they had made some new friends along the way.

Sammy and Sally's search for salmon was a great adventure. They learned a lot about the ocean and they made some new friends along the way. They also had a delicious dinner of salmon!

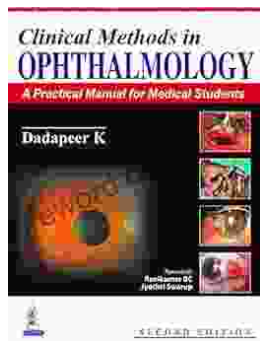

If you're ever looking for a fun and educational activity, I encourage you to go on a search for salmon. You might just be surprised at what you find.
